A Post-Batch for the Future...

New Studies - Disclaimer

In the past, researchers completed a process known as Roll Over. This involved researchers submitting a renewal for existing studies. However, because the process for roll over is no longer supported, researchers must now choose to submit studies in the Kuali IRB system. The UCSD IRB is not the IRB of record for these studies. As such, a submission in the Kuali IRB system does not replace the roll over process. Researchers should review their studies to ensure that they are in compliance with the UCSD IRB policies and procedures. Researchers should also consult their study team to ensure that all necessary documents are available before submitting studies in the Kuali IRB system. If a study is submitted in the Kuali IRB system and is not in compliance with UCSD IRB policies and procedures, the study may be rejected or delayed. Researchers should consult the UCSD IRB website for more information on how to submit studies in the Kuali IRB system.
